

Basic LGBTQI training for sports clubs

LGBTQI competence is important in creating an open and welcoming sports club in which children, adolescents and coaches treat each other in an inclusive and equal manner.

LGBTQI people have poorer health than the general population. LGBTQI youth are also more vulnerable to discrimination, threats and violence than other young people. 30% of young transgender people have seriously considered taking their own life.

Through West Pride's basic LGBTQI training, sports clubs have the opportunity to increase their competence in LGBTQI issues and norm awareness. The training focuses on LGBTQI terminology, sexual orientation and gender identity, hetero-normativity and cis-normativity, the living conditions for LGBTQI people worldwide, Swedish legislation, and openness and diversity in sports.

The workshop provides the sports club with a common knowledge base on LGBTQI issues.
